The GPPS Mission Statement

About the Society

Our mission at the Global Power and Propulsion Society (GPPS) is to unite a global community of experts and leaders to address the evolving challenges in power and propulsion.

We bring together a diverse set of stakeholders from industry, engineering, academia, finance, and policy influencers to facilitate dialogue and draft global energy strategies. By engaging internationally renowned experts in intimate settings, we facilitate the exchange of insights and innovative ideas.

GPPS promotes cross-functional and cross-regional collaboration to anticipate future challenges and develop opportunity pathways. We are committed to involving the next generation of stakeholders, ensuring a continuous influx of new perspectives and solutions to drive the power and propulsion industries forward.

Institutional Membership

For Universities and other academic institutions, we offer an exclusive opportunity to join the GPPS as one of our valued Institutional Members.

Institutional Membership with GPPS
By becoming an Institutional Member of GPPS, your university will gain exclusive benefits that highlight your commitment to excellence in education and research. These include:

Prominent Visibility
Your institution's name and logo will be featured across our extensive marketing communications, earning broad recognition among a diverse audience of educators, researchers, and key stakeholders. This exposure directly connects your institution with both academic and corporate communities.

Event Website Showcase
Your university's profile will be prominently highlighted on our Event website. This platform links students, professionals, and investors to your institution's website, showcasing your achievements, academic offerings, and unique contributions to the global academic landscape.

Exhibition Space
Institutional Members receive a dedicated space in the exhibition area at our events. This offers a unique opportunity to present your university's initiatives, groundbreaking research projects, and academic programs to an engaged and influential audience.

Exclusive Networking Opportunities
Become part of a prestigious network of like-minded institutions, academics, and professionals. Foster partnerships and collaborations that can lead to meaningful knowledge exchange and mutually beneficial ventures.
